"The design of the restaurant celebrates the process of beer making."

The interior designers were challenged to create an elevated spin on the traditional beer hall that would celebrate beer and the craft of beer making. Copper draught pipes add sparkle to the simple palette of wood floors and ceilings, concrete walls and black metal. Large wooden tables nod to the traditional beer hall, and abstract images of Mill Street products commissioned from local artists reinforces the theme. A long bar and open kitchen signal to customers that the brand takes both its beer and its food seriously.
